YOUR HYBRID WORKING JOURNEY

Hybrid working is quickly becoming the norm. Across the world, organisations are exploring the flexibility benefits of utilising multiple environments, including working in the traditional office, co-working in a shared space, working from home and working on the go.

However, without the right preparations, a distributed workforce can face challenges around productivity, collaboration and security. Canon's Digital Transformation Services are designed to overcome these issues and support your hybrid working journey, whether you are taking your first steps or developing your existing strategy.

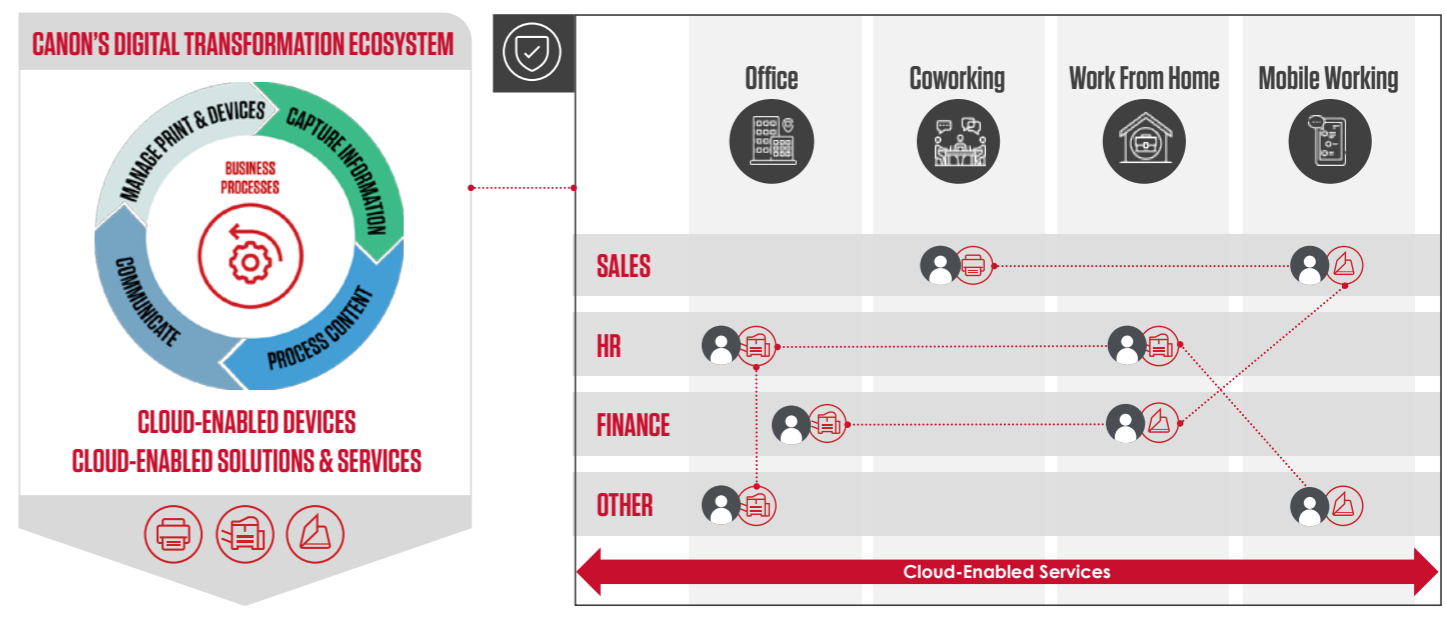

This bespoke and scalable portfolio keeps teams connected regardless of their location and helps drive forward your digital transformation.

YOUR PEOPLE WORKING EFFECTIVELY FROM ANYWHERE

Canon's Digital Transformation Ecosystem enables your team to work from anywhere, by ensuring they always stay connected to business documents and workflows via cloud-enabled devices, solutions and services. Employees can move between working locations and still complete everyday business processes efficiently, interacting with paper and digital documents smoothly, while accessing and managing information promptly.

We understand that every business is in a different stage of their digital transformation. Wherever you are in your journey, your organisation can benefit from a more harmonious management of paper and digital documents, and being able and ready to interact with hybrid content. Regardless of your organisation's position, we can help you transition towards or manage a hybrid working environment, ensuring your business processes and workflows run more effective than ever.

WHY CANON

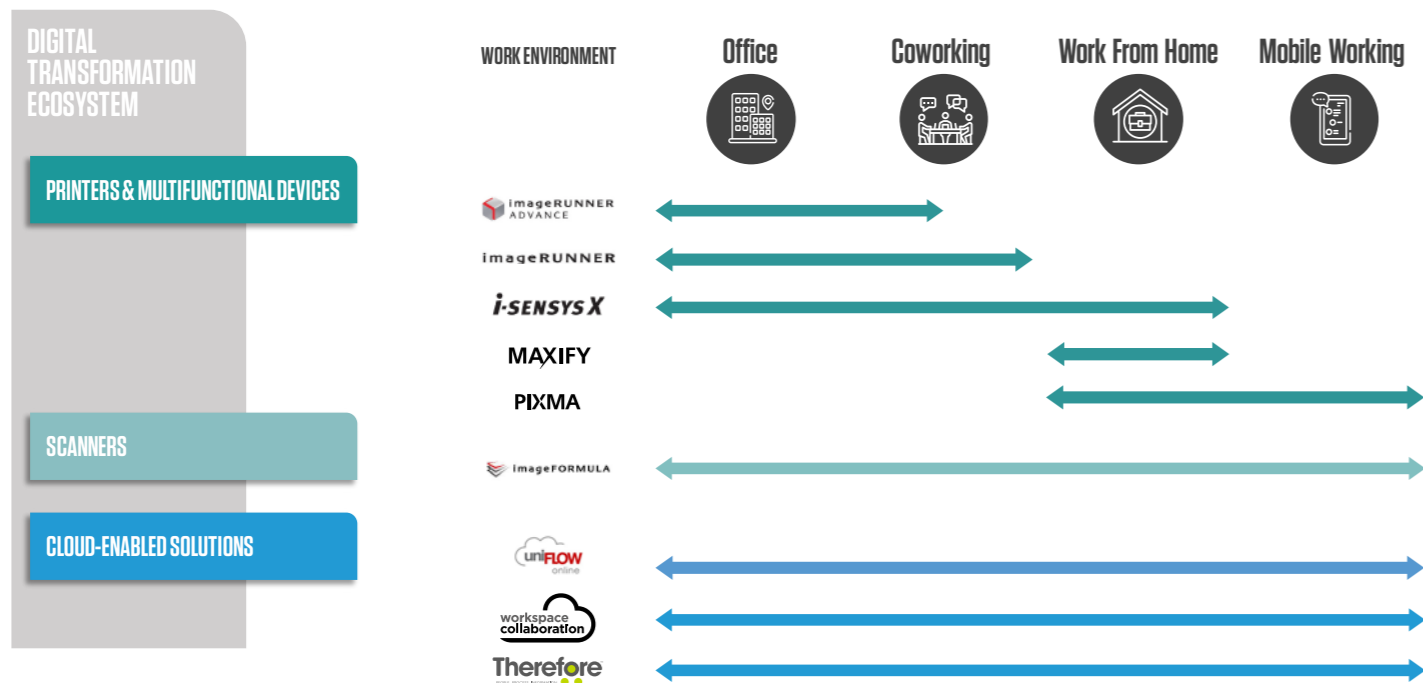

FOR YOUR HYBRID WORKING & MOBILITY NEEDS

The Canon portfolio represents a complete proposition to support your hybrid working future. The strength, versatility and scope of our technology range coupled with end-to-end services can form the backbone of your digital transformation journey. Automate business processes, ensure security and compliance, simplify device management and create high-quality output – all while freeing up time for your IT team. As an established and trusted technology innovator, Canon has the experience to support successful working across each of your hybrid environments.

OUR TECHNOLOGY

SUPPORTING YOUR ORGANISATION ANYWHERE

We want to help you empower your teams to move smoothly between locations without interruption to a productive working day. Canon offers an ecosystem of technologies designed to create seamless hybrid working; this includes hardware designed for every type of workspace, from desktop-sized devices for home working to powerful hardware built for busy offices. Our hardware comes with inbuilt connectivity which allows teams to access the documents they need, even from outside the office.

We team our hardware with an extensive suite of print and information management software solutions designed to work seamlessly with it. These tools help your business ensure that your documents are not only accessible to employees who need them, from anywhere, but rigorously protected throughout every stage of their lifecycle. We understand that managing a hybrid working environment is complex, which is why in addition to technologies we can support your business through a wide range of services to make life easier, from transition and implementation, to management and maintenance.
